Katrina:

Please accept my apology in replying to you but I wanted to discuss this matter with Mark Peycke.

Yes--- based upon what you have stated that there is no personal information in the Sampling Report ..." the report may be released to the public."

Subject: Releasable Document Question

Marvin, do you have an answer regarding the Residential Sampling Report? Can this report be release without redaction?

On 7/28, we talked about whether the data and the report could be released to the public. This sampling was conducted in May/June 2015 at 9 residential properties. The report does not use personal information to identify the properties. No use of names or addresses. All properties are identified using a random numbering system. Figures show property locations with grid outlines on aerials taken from Google Earth. Data identifiers are related to property number and grid number with no personal identifying information.

thanks
